Yesterday the socialistic short-lived [illegible] of the Democratic party in Denver [illegible] Chicago platform, and succeeded, for our board of trade took hold of the matter, and they to endorse the main features of this [illegible] and to do the only [illegible] could properly [illegible] and urged to be acted upon. We hope the executive committee of the board of trade will take hold of the matter at once and [illegible] the advisability of calling a meeting of the organization.

The New York World of last Saturday [illegible] of interviews of [illegible] prominent politicians and editors of leading newspapers, to express their opinion regarding the effect of the recent election and particularly the effect of the election in New York upon the renomination of Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Blaine. Some three columns of replies were published. Without an exception they all gave it as their opinion that Mr. Cleveland would be renominated, and most thought that he would be re-elected. There was the largest difference of opinion regarding Mr. Blaine. Most democrats thought that Mr. Blaine's chances for a nomination were injured by the New York election. The republicans generally thought Mr. Blaine could be renominated if he wished to be, but were not sanguine about his election. Whatever the politicians may say, the country generally has made up its mind that Mr. Cleveland is going to have a second term. It might be best for the republican party to make up its mind to accept this. It could then afford to adopt a platform not to win, but to express honest, right sentiments. The party straddled the tariff question in New York, and lost friends on both sides. The shrewd men know now that it would have been better to have been honest and frank. Let the republican party next year adopt an honest platform. It then will make its calling and election sure in 1892. What we are most in danger of now is of the smart men who believe he can draw a platform that will please all the west and devil. Too much smartness has greatly injured the party.

Now that Land Commissioner Sparks is down there seems to be a very general effort going on to kick him. While the president should have supported Mr. Lamar instead of Mr. Sparks, there is much to be said in favor of the land commissioner. While he entered the land office there was great need of reforms. Corporations were always sure of getting their [illegible] grants whether they had them or not. When these corporations were in a great hurry to have patents, clerks would speed up and neglect to make them out. There was such looseness in the administration of the pre-emption and homestead laws that frauds were committed all over the country. Old residents of Colorado who are familiar with the quarter-section that is developing to the tune sparks went into office, not on behalf of the land on which patents were received was acquired according to the letter of the law. Mr. Sparks stopped all this. He [illegible] to [illegible] investigation of [illegible] before any patents were issued. This [illegible] a great many very honest people whose acquirements their land is, perhaps, not [illegible] and [illegible] effect of checking the thieves. We [illegible] the [illegible] of patents [illegible] a few years before Mr. Sparks went into office, when it was not [illegible] the interior department to find out one of the most [illegible] could be found. Although [illegible] Nebraska postmaster [illegible] that he never heard of [illegible] men. It was [illegible] of perjury and [illegible] in the face of these facts the patent was granted. Mr. Sparks has revoked the order of [illegible] and set for two years and a half. He has wrought a revolution in his office [illegible] in the county where [illegible] quantities of government land can be [illegible]. It used to be [illegible] cheap rate [illegible] to make all [illegible] but now they [illegible] in many cases [illegible] were used. Land receivers and [illegible] make the grants. There was considerable stealing and [illegible] money did [illegible] to the [illegible] Mr. Sparks [illegible] for the credit for this new [illegible]. He may have [illegible] but [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
